

ENTERING THE US

WHAT TO EXPECT AT THE PORT OF ENTRY

NAVIGATING CUSTOMS & BORDER PATROL (CBP)

With recent increased screenings at the US border, it is important when entering that you are fully prepared. Here is an overview of what to expect:

ARRIVAL PROCESS

Be prepared with the following documents:

- Passport & valid nonimmigrant visa (Canadians exempt)
- Original Form I-20
- Current Bank Statement & Evidence of financial guarantee
- LWTech admission letter
- CBP Declaration Form (be sure to declare appropriate items)

Don't bring restricted items - see CBP's website for rules regarding travel with medications, foods or pets: <http://tinyurl.com/TravelRules>

You may also be fingerprinted and/or photographed

Border Protection

QUESTIONING & TIPS

- Officers may ask you questions about your reason for entering the U.S. or about your academic program. If an officer asks about your academic performance, remain calm, answer honestly and clearly.
- CBP may also ask you questions about, or inspect your electronic devices. This may include your social media accounts. For tips on how to prepare your devices visit: <http://tinyurl.com/DeviceSearch>

ADDITIONAL SCREENINGS

An officer may determine you (and/or your luggage) require additional screening.

This is not uncommon. You may be asked to go to an interview area called Secondary Inspection where they will verify information and ask you additional questions. You can expect:

- Long wait times (multiple hours)
- Additional, more substantial and specific questioning
- Tip: Make notes of your experience, including officer name and badge number

BE AWARE OF INCREASED SCRUTINY & POLICY UPDATES

Ongoing litigation regarding Executive Order travel bans may complicate travel for travelers from Libya, Iran, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen.
